

Biographical Note

Emil Sörqvist is a consultant and trainer in Quality Management and Data Analytics at Sandholm Associates in Stockholm, Sweden. He has a bachelor's degree in computer science from the Royal Institute of Technology (KTH) where he specialized in Machine Learning and Artificial Intelligence. Emil has also studied Security and Risk Management at the Swedish Defense University and US Navy.

Recently he has been running a research project at the KTH focused on how modern quality tools can improve the capability to meet customer needs in agile software development. Today Emil is doing his master's degree in Industrial Management at KTH and the University of Illinois, USA.