

Biographical Note

Maria João Cunha, has a degree in Zootechnical Engineering from the University of Évora, a Post-Graduate degree in Quality and Food Safety from the Instituto Superior Egas Moniz and in Strategic Management in Agroindustry from the Instituto politecnico of Portalegre, and is recognised as a specialist in Food Engineering by the Order of Engineers.

Currently, she is the director of integrated systems and certifications at the Grupo Nabeiro - Delta Cafés, providing consultancy services, training and implementation of systems in the areas of quality, food safety, environment, health and safety, Social Responsibility and Conciliation.

She is also a member of the Food Engineering Specialisation Committee at the Portuguese Engineers' Association. Vice-president of the southern direction of the Portuguese Association for Quality (APQ). And, member of the board of Global Compact Portugal.